

Forgiving Others

We know the importance of asking forgiveness when we have wronged someone.

We also need to give forgiveness to someone who has harmed us.

Sometimes that can be even harder to do.

Check out the situations below. Write how you might respond with forgiveness if you were in their place.

Peter's friends have apologized for teasing him about wearing braces.

Janet's younger brother told her he was sorry about hiding the TV remote control from her.

Angie's Mom apologized to her for not listening to Angie when she was busy the day before.

Scott's pen pal wrote that he was sorry for forgetting about Scott's birthday.
